Germans Face New Disasters

Russians Force New Nazi Retreats in Rostov Area

By M. S. HANDLER
Exclusive to the Edmonton Bulletin
MOSCOW, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Soviet forces have pierced a fortified line east of Rostov and forced the Germans to retreat to the city for the second time within 24 hours, Soviet dispatches and communiques disclosed today.

The noon communiqué said the Red Army has repulsed a counter-attack near Rostov and captured a series of fortified positions.

(A CBC broadcast recorded by the British United Press listening post in New York said Russian dive bombers were incessantly bombing and machine-gunning German troops retreating from Rostov toward Taganrog, 30 miles west of the gateway city.)

STEADY PROGRESS
It said the Russian advance on Rostov was making good steady progress although German tank units were attempting, delaying action in the Rostov area.

New gains were reported north, east and southwest of threatened Rostov, where the Soviet forces of Col. Gen. Nikolai F. Vatutin and Col. Gen. Philip Golikov registered steady advances.

Golikov continued to press westward after capturing Kursk, within 25 miles north of Kharkov, and was moving to liberate the Bryansk-Kharkov region.

Interview King
Labor Needed
On Farms For Peak Periods

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—(CP)—A delegation from the Canadian Federation of Agriculture said today at an interview with Prime Minister Mackenzie King that Canada is "dangerously close" to the point at which it may have to call on an expanding foreign supply or additional manpower for other purposes but not both.

Mackenzie King said the government, following the annual meeting at Calgary, the delegation of the farm manpower to be allocated without discrimination between agriculture and other essential war industries and that for peak periods, like seedling and harvest time, men be released from military service to work on farms.

Other questions in the submission were:
—Fixing the initial price of wheat at $1 a bushel, basis No. 1 north at Lusk, or Vancouver, with a minimum price of $1.35 a bushel for all wheat for domestic consumption.
—No reduction below 280,000,000 bushels in the quantity of wheat available during the coming year.
—Increase in the guaranteed floor on Page 2, Col. 7.

Adjustments but No Great Change in Taxation Levels In 1943-44 Budget Forecast

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—(CP)—The Ottawa Evening Citizen said today in a front page story that, while there can be no 1943-44 budget, expected to be brought down within two or three weeks, will provide:

1.—Adjustments but no great change in the levels of taxation.
2.—Introduction of the pay-as-you-go plan of income tax collection.
3.—Tariff changes but only those of a clarifying administrative character. The tariff, these days, is often changed in a downward direction, by order-in-council.

4.—No departure from the financial plan followed heretofore, namely, raising money by taxation and by public loans and savings.
5.—Adherence to the anti-inflationary policy with no very vital change in the methods followed in the persons of those who apply them.

6.—Another big Victory Loan drive, for as much as can be raised.

7.—The government continued the question as to whether the party should again enter the provincial field and elect a provincial leader.

PO. Richard P. Wilkin, 10304 123 street, Edmonton, who has been included among seven Canadian firemen overseas who have been awarded the Distinguished Fireman's Medal, for his gallant and heroic actions in the fire at the University hospital for some time, Reinhardt made a good recovery.

None of those residing in the lodge was injured, although all 16 of the occupants, among whom there were small children, were forced out in the bitterly cold weather.

STARTS IN BASEMENT
The fire started when some wooden flooring in the basement caught alight, as Mr. Lavallee, the housekeeper, was having lunch in the dining room.

Firemen, who arrived from No. 2 hall soon had the flames under control but great clouds of smoke and steam made it extremely difficult to get at the heart of the blaze. A second call brought a fire engine from No. 2 hall to the scene.

Residents grabbed what clothes they could reach in a hurry and hurried for the street. Neighbors and relatives put them all up for the night.

EXTENSIVE DAMAGE
There will be considerable damage from smoke and water but very little from fire, Mrs. Lavallee said. Fire alarm was telephoned by Robert Turan, agent of Mrs. Lavallee, himself a resident of the lodge.

The apartment house was heated by gas and firemen soon had the flames under control.

Exact Cause of Break in Main Water Supply Not Known, Says Commissioner

Exact cause of the break in the water main that brought about this morning's water supply failure has not been determined, and cannot be until the flood conditions around it subside, R. J. Gibb, city commissioner, stated. It is believed, however, that the break took place in the fire hydrant at the northwest corner of 96 avenue and 103 street.

Mr. Gibb paid tribute to the excellent work done by the work crews from the waterworks and engineers' departments who, working under the severest weather conditions, and battling flood and mud, effected the isolation of the break within four hours.

Fireman Overcome Sixteen Flee into Street As Blaze Occurs in Lodge

Sixteen persons, members of seven families, occupying suites in the Melford Lodge at 10550 83 avenue, were forced out-of-doors by fire that started in the basement of the two-story structure soon after 7:30 p.m. Monday. The temperature was 25 degrees below zero at the time.

Edwin Reinhardt, of 10558 74 avenue, fireman from No. 6 South Side fire hall, collapsed when overcome by smoke while fighting the fire in upstairs room and was taken to hospital in the city police patrol car, after receiving first aid in a house next door to the Melford Lodge.

None of those residing in the lodge was injured, although all 16 of the occupants, among whom there were small children, were forced out in the bitterly cold weather.

Complete Shutdown In City Service For Period of Four Hours

Practically working to isolate a water main break at the north-west corner of 96 avenue and 103 street which occurred at 8:20 a.m. Tuesday, workmen from the city waterworks and engineers' departments succeeded in reaching water and ice-covered valves to stem the flood flow and divert the city water supply through mains to all parts of the city. Service was restored at 12:20 p.m.

The break caused a complete water supply failure throughout the city, and for a period it appeared that a very serious situation was faced by hospitals, schools and other large institutions.

The isolating of the flood and main break district was completed at 12:20 p.m. and within a few minutes the pumping plant at the power house was pouring water into the mains to restore water supply to normal.

Hope Complete Alaska Highway In Coming Year

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Completion of the permanent Alaska Highway, the longest road in the world, during the present year is a goal of the United States Bureau of Public Roads.

The aim was disclosed in the house of representatives appropriation bill for Alaska road work, introduced by Senator Thomas H. Macdonald, of Alaska.

The story of the race to complete the road, nearly 1,622 miles of highway, is the subject of a book by the late Gen. W. A. Harbord, published by the Public Roads Administration.

Captured Generals Reveal: Hitler's "Intuitive" Leadership Cause of Debacle at Stalingrad

By GODFREY BLUNDEN
STALINGRAD, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler's intuitive military leadership was directly responsible for the failure of the German 6th Army at Stalingrad and its subsequent annihilation.

That is the conclusion I draw after conversations with Soviet generals who conducted the operations which resulted in the destruction of the 6th Army.

The conclusion is supported by the demeanor and remarks made by 11 of the 24 generals captured by the Russians whom Soviet authorities permitted me to see in the presence of their staff officers.

All the evidence, in my opinion, points to the fact that Hitler insisted on continuing the battle long after the position was militarily untenable from the German viewpoint and that he was not swayed by the advice of his higher officers.

AGAINST SURRENDER

Hitler also insisted through Field Marshal Gen. Friedrich von Paulus, commander of the 6th Army, that there be no surrender, even after the situation was hopeless, and that he was in disagreement with the advice of his higher officers.

This is confirmed by the story of Von Paulus captured as told to me by a Red army senior lieutenant, Fedor Mikhailovich Yelchov. Von Paulus had been removed from command the previous day.

When I saw Von Paulus he was standing in an unheated wooden house on the Don steppe. His attitude was one of bitter austerity. The corners of his mouth turned down and he wouldn't look in the direction of newspaper correspondents but gazed at the horizon. He answered briefly questions put by a Soviet officer at the request of correspondents. There was no sign of interest or emotion.

Schlemmer, a sharp-featured, hooked-nose man, in reply to question as to what he blamed for German defeat, said: "We had to fight."

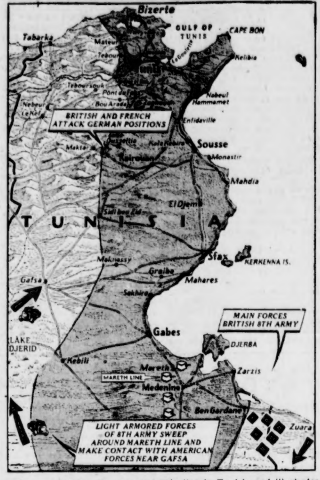

He then turned to complain about the rationing being received, saying they were no better than those received by privates. Rinaldi also joined in this complaint. A Soviet officer said these complaints would be attended to.

Asked for his opinion of the fighting qualities of the Red Army, von Daniel said: "The Red Army always fights well."

In an adjacent room was Lt. Gen. Maurice von Drebber, commander of the 28th Infantry Division, Maj. Gen. Heinz Wolf, commander of artillery of the 4th Army Corps.

MONTREAL, Feb. 9.—(CP)—A 30-year-old woman, identified as Sarah Fleishman, plunged to her death from the 10th story window of a downtown office in the Victoria Building yesterday. She had been in the room for a few minutes when a scream was heard and when the doctor opened his office door to investigate he saw her disappear over the window ledge.

Plan for Peace

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—(CP)—Immediate abolition of the customs tariff and creation of a five-year farm program to enable Canada to feed a starving post-war world were reforms urged in the House of Commons last night by Gordon Ross (Lib., Moose Jaw).

To have tariffs against any British goods at the present time was "absolutely ridiculous," Mr. Ross declared. He urged the forthcoming budget provide for removal of all tariffs on Canadian and the United States, and "some other countries."

When the war ended and the industrial machinery of the world will have to turn to peace-time production. They will all have to start Mr. Ross.

TIME OPPORTUNITY

"This is the one time that Canada can lower tariffs or do away with them altogether without hurting any industrial, any worker or any industry."

Mr. Ross spoke in the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne. He was the last of nine speakers participating in yesterday's discussions which ranged over many aspects of Canada's war problems.

He drew applause from members when he declared that all the ministers of agriculture Canada has had have had no battle in the House to get any money for the development of farm production.

"What we need more than anything is a forward-looking program for agriculture covering a period of at least five years, or for the duration of the war and two years after."

"Canada as quickly as possible must accumulate stock piles of food for the people of the United States and of the countries that will be liberated," he declared as Social Credit members applauded.

Claim Drafttees Can Best Serve In Agriculture

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—(CP)—Many men called out for compulsory military service would serve Canada better in agriculture or other civilian employment than in a home defence force, said the majority of the House of Commons yesterday.

Speaking in the continued debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne, Mr. Gregory said he questioned the expansion of the army to eight divisions and its consequent drain on manpower. He questioned only the army "patronage" not that of the other services.

THIRD SPEAKER

Mr. Gregory was the third speaker in the debate yesterday. Others were Laid, Walter Tucker (Lib. Kootenay) and C. E. Johnston (N.D. Bow River).

Mr. Gregory said that in Saskatchewan there had been "entire disregard" of the government on its counsel, designed to freeze labor on the farms, by war service boards hearing applications for postponement of compulsory military training. There had been no thought of the consequences of the agriculture of calling men for service.

He urged that a redistribution bill which would reduce Saskatchewan representation by four members be not proceeded with at present. Abolition of the consequences of the agriculture of calling men for service.

He expected back after the war.

Lieut. Tucker appealed for a serious consideration of the industries being established in the west.

"We have been told we did not have raw materials," he said. "But we have the grain with which to produce alcohol for synthetic rubber."

Mr. Johnston said a secret session should be held to consider the report of the house committee on war expenditures. If all members were able to review the report presented to the committee they would be "surprised."

If no secret session were held, Mr. Johnston said an effort would be made to have the report in the house. "We had to be in a strange country."

Reversing the now old story of the Canadian troops leaving, Mr. Johnston said his wife and daughter, the gray-haired man did not give up his home in Canada as his wife had sent me such glowing reports of the country."

Net Intake of Armed Forces 732,022 Men

By B. T. RICHARDSON
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau
OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—The net intake of the armed forces of Canada at December 31, 1941, was 732,022, according to a new issue of the wartime information board's booklet Canada at War. This is a new figure, bringing to date previous statistics. It indicates that the net intake of manpower by the armed forces has exceeded 750,000, allowing for 100,000 enlistments and draft inductions for January.

These figures take account of discharges and casualties, and do not represent actual strength of the four services.

The latest table shows that at the end of December, 624,299 Canadians had voluntarily enlisted. In this proportion, navy 48,886, army 433,266, air 141,147. The combined total represented 29.5 per cent of the male population from 19 to 45 years.

33 PER CENT

Operation of the draft brought 237,816 men into the army, of which 20,662 enlisted to obtain active status, leaving 71,153 men on draft status. This net total, combined with the voluntary intake, gives the total of 732,022, which is 33 per cent of the male population from 19 to 45 years.

For public information purposes it was noted, the booklet now gives the following round figures on strength of the Canadian forces: navy, more than 52,000; army, approximately 520,000; air force, approximately 200,000. This gives a total of 682,000. The last official figure on strength of armed forces was given by Prime Minister King in his New York speech last December 2, when he said "Today Canada has about 600,000 men on active service in her three armed forces. Altogether, the active service strength of Canadian forces at home and abroad would be 600,000 approximately today."

"This is the one time that Canada can lower tariffs or do away with them altogether without hurting any industrial, any worker or any industry."

Mr. Ross spoke in the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne. He was the last of nine speakers participating in yesterday's discussions which ranged over many aspects of Canada's war problems.

He drew applause from members when he declared that all the ministers of agriculture Canada has had have had no battle in the House to get any money for the development of farm production.

"What we need more than anything is a forward-looking program for agriculture covering a period of at least five years, or for the duration of the war and two years after."

"Canada as quickly as possible must accumulate stock piles of food for the people of the United States and of the countries that will be liberated," he declared as Social Credit members applauded.

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—The net intake of the armed forces of Canada at December 31, 1941, was 732,022, according to a new issue of the wartime information board's booklet Canada at War. This is a new figure, bringing to date previous statistics. It indicates that the net intake of manpower by the armed forces has exceeded 750,000, allowing for 100,000 enlistments and draft inductions for January.

These figures take account of discharges and casualties, and do not represent actual strength of the four services.

The latest table shows that at the end of December, 624,299 Canadians had voluntarily enlisted. In this proportion, navy 48,886, army 433,266, air 141,147. The combined total represented 29.5 per cent of the male population from 19 to 45 years.

33 PER CENT

Operation of the draft brought 237,816 men into the army, of which 20,662 enlisted to obtain active status, leaving 71,153 men on draft status. This net total, combined with the voluntary intake, gives the total of 732,022, which is 33 per cent of the male population from 19 to 45 years.

For public information purposes it was noted, the booklet now gives the following round figures on strength of the Canadian forces: navy, more than 52,000; army, approximately 520,000; air force, approximately 200,000. This gives a total of 682,000. The last official figure on strength of armed forces was given by Prime Minister King in his New York speech last December 2, when he said "Today Canada has about 600,000 men on active service in her three armed forces. Altogether, the active service strength of Canadian forces at home and abroad would be 600,000 approximately today."

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King yesterday said the government is considering appointing two governors of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and is looking for recommendations of the House Radio Committee last year that it possible to have two representatives of agriculture and labor. He said he was not sure if the vacancies could be made "very soon."

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—(CP)—Immediate abolition of the customs tariff and creation of a five-year farm program to enable Canada to feed a starving post-war world were reforms urged in the House of Commons last night by Gordon Ross (Lib., Moose Jaw).

To have tariffs against any British goods at the present time was "absolutely ridiculous," Mr. Ross declared. He urged the forthcoming budget provide for removal of all tariffs on Canadian and the United States, and "some other countries."

When the war ended and the industrial machinery of the world will have to turn to peace-time production. They will all have to start Mr. Ross.

Dear

If you'd dropped into Edmonton in the middle of the week recently, you'd have thought it was Sunday, at least around most of the beer parlors. One by one they had to close up shop as their beer quotas were exhausted and people were turned away. The few places that did stay open after the deadline were unable to serve all their customers...driest year in 20, they say.

A new debt act is forecast for Alberta. Premier Abernethy and his government, at the legislative session of the legislature, took place in adjustment act. It is reported in well informed circles. This is a result of the decision of the federal cabinet and the privy council, handed down Feb. 1, declaring ultra vires legislation heretofore operative.

Remember G. A. Campbell, former Edmonton alderman and father of Lt. Clarence Campbell, Canadian army officer, has been named as manager of the timber control branch of the Wartime Prices Trade Board for Alberta and the interior of B.C. with headquarters in Edmonton. The board is expected to be in a rough time in the near future.

Chief of Police Matt. Blackwood has a severe headache. He is already having suffered heavily as a result of enlistments in the armed forces, and with Edmonton's population increasing by leaps and bounds, six experienced members of the police force have handed in their resignations. The six who have given notice to the chief are: Constables Doug Fraser, Art Boyes, Robert Dunlop, Charles Pakkuk, A. V. Hillman and Rick All. All have secured employment on northern war development projects.

Wednesday

Farm workers not essential to a particular farm will be given three months, rather than be drafted, to find essential work on other farms, under an interpretation of mobilization regulations being sent out to chairman of mobilization boards, it was learned here. Mobilization board members are to be divided, as much as possible, to farm work. The six who have given notice to the chief are: Constables Doug Fraser, Art Boyes, Robert Dunlop, Charles Pakkuk, A. V. Hillman and Rick All. All have secured employment on northern war development projects.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Never in the history of boxing was the importance of weight stressed as it was Friday night at Detroit and New York. At Detroit, before a record local indoor crowd of 18,000 fans, middleweight Jake La Motta, 164 underweight, gave welterweight Ray Robinson the first defeat of his career as an amateur or professional, largely because La Motta was permitted to come into the ring outweighing the unbeaten New York negro by 15½ pounds.

Meanwhile, at New York, Beau Jack, the explosive Georgia negro, who is recognized as lightweight champion of the world in New York state, barely won an unpopular decision over veteran Fritz Zivic, former welterweight king, who outweighed Beau Jack by eight pounds.

Beau Jack, despite the fire and speed of his youth, won this decision largely because ancient Zivic was penalized a round for an alleged low blow, which apparently broke this year's record crowd of 21,240 fans had seen.

WILSON MEETS ROBINSON

In this connection it must be mentioned that recently in New York the same middleweight, Wilson Robinson at Detroit Friday night scored a similar upset over welterweight contender Sgt. Jackie Wilson of Mitchell, N.Y., after Wilson permitted La Motta to come into the ring enjoying a weight advantage of 16 pounds.

We recall Wilson and La Motta for a good reason. Wilson takes a beating from Robinson at Detroit Friday night and welterweight Wilson recently enjoyed such poundage advantages that his opponent was forced to back a pull of at least 15 pounds into the weights throughout the bout.

This burden—forced onto one's shoulders by an opponent who weighs more than he—becomes a millstone before the distance is closed. When a welter fighter, middleweight, the welter expects almost twice the energy of the middleweight before the final bell, if the difference is 15 pounds, the limit permitted by the New York commission. La Motta exceeded this difference in his Detroit bout with Robinson and his New York bout with Wilson.

Zivic was within the limit of 12 pounds permitted between a lightweight and welter on Friday. His advantage of eight pounds at times heavily handicapped him, but although Zivic is an old man of the ring, a week ago featherweight champion Willie Pep spotted lightweight Al Stolz five and three and a half pounds, and he was an exceptional result. Good fighters in lower divisions are handicapped by weight differences over 25 pounds. That artificial classification was proved to be

WANTED SUPER-HEAVIES

Hassie Young Second Ken Cox Leads Scorers In Junior Hockey League

KEN COX of the Canadians finished on top in the scoring race for the regular season of the City Junior Hockey League with six goals and eight assists for a total of 14 points.

Hassie Young of the E.A.C. is running a close second with 12 while Bing Merluc, Canadians has the most goals to his credit but has only counted on three assists.

Harry Allen, R.C.A.F., Freddie Swetten, E.A.C. and Al Suprenant of the Edmonton Athletic Club all have a total of 11 for a four-way tie for third place. Glen Gray of the Canadians is the next highest with three goals and seven assists to his credit.

"Bad man" of the league is Al Suprenant, just defenseman with the Chummen, who has 28 minutes marked against him.

The following is the first seven individual standings:

CLEVELAND, Feb. 9.—(C.P.)—Cleveland Barons, who dominated the American League in 1931, are now in the lower levels, have moved along rapidly in the past few weeks and now have a one-point edge over Indianapolis and Providence in the race for fourth place.

And they are only a game and a half behind the Pittsburgh Hornets, who have received defensive aid from Toronto Maple Leafs of the National League.

Cleveland made its rise possible by spilling Indianapolis' Case 31 Saturday night and then turning the Hornets over to their pet Jim, Hershey Bears, on Sunday. The Bears, still far in front in the standings, defeated the Case 34 in overtime.

Buffalo in second position, defeated Washington Case 42 Saturday night and drew 2-2 with the Lima Senators.

Hershey	10	7	8	10
Pittsburgh	10	7	8	10
Cleveland	9	8	9	10
Indianapolis	9	8	9	10

Kentucky Derby Still Doubtful

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The fate of the Kentucky Derby remained in doubt last night with sponsors of the historic horse race reported working on some plan to make it a "street car" affair, in an effort to soften the objection of Joseph H. Eastman, director of transportation department.

There appeared no certainty, however, Eastman would give his blessing even if steps were taken with a view to eliminating long-distance travel. Associates of the O.D.T. director said it would be difficult to limit attendance to nearby customers.

Eastman said his position, outlined in a statement Saturday night, remained unchanged. He said that outlander Auble Galan has been rejected for military service because of physical ailments.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Joseph Farrell of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association announced yesterday that there will be no racing this year at the Bowie track, one of the state's four major ovals. No decision has been announced for the other three.

Expect Fairmount Track Will Open

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Burrill, general manager of the Fairmount Jockey Club at Collinsville, Ill., said yesterday that he expects the track to open on schedule May 29.

William A. Jeffers, rubber ad administrator, has asked state governor to issue a license for the track, as is the case at Fairmount.

Baseball Status Not Yet Decided

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Whether baseball will be played on non-essential so that players will lose their dependency draft deferment status even if they have children remains undecided. War Manpower Commissioner Paul V. Hill said in answering a direct question, that, "now, building qualities of a line of work 'might be a factor' in determining whether such work should be added to the list of occupations made non-deferable on dependency grounds."

Aldermen Guarantee Future Fuel Shortage

Report on Possibilities Of City-Owned Coal Mine Sought At Council Meet

Coal shortages experienced in Edmonton during the recent cold weather, and the possibility of a future break in the Northwestern Utilities Co. gas line to Edmonton caused Aldermen Guy Patterson, K.C., and Sidney Parsons, in city council Monday night, to direct inquiries into the feasibility of guaranteeing continuity of fuel supply for consumers in the city.

I Saw Today
Ald. Patterson asked the city committee to report on the feasibility of the city owning and operating its own coal mine and suggested that the mine possibilities of a coal seam dipping like Wabamun be explored.

He intimated that there was a strip mine proposition in this district, and desired to know if the property could be removed by hydraulic pressure and also if such underground mining could be operated during the winter months in open pits. He also asked for a report on the use of equipment used by the street department during the summer months.

SEKS INFORMATION
Ald. Parsons requested information as to the feasibility of obtaining a continuity of fuel supply for Edmonton, and suggested that representatives of the coal companies and the Northwestern Utilities be consulted on the possibility of establishing coal reserves in the city against possible shortages or the discontinuance of gas supply through pipe-line breakage.

Co-Operation Of All Urged For Salvage
While the co-operation of the citizens of Edmonton is asked by Edward C. Fisher, organizer of the National Salvage in Alberta.

Mr. Fisher, commenting on a report of Calgary's salvage campaign, pointed out a sum of $15,000 was raised there from the sale of salvaged junk.

"If Calgary can raise that sum," said Mr. Fisher, "we can do even better, as we are a larger city."

He called on every person in the city to turn in all the waste metal, scrap rubber, rag, bone—anything that can be of use in the war in Europe.

Visiting City Probe Of Resignations From City Police Force Is Ordered by Council

Perturbed by the active and rumored resignations from the city police force, Edmonton's city council, at its meeting Monday night, appointed a three-man committee to act with the Police Commission to inquire into reasons for those resignations.

Police Chief Says Officers Made No Kick
Chief Constable Matthew Blackwood Tuesday declared that "Not a single officer has come to me with a specific complaint about how he has been treated, nor has treatment been stated as an official cause for quitting in the cases of the six who have resigned and not a single complaint of a similar nature has been made to the city commissioners either."

Chief Blackwood also stated he had no knowledge of several other police officers who were withholding their resignations pending a meeting of the Police Association's executive and the city commissioners.

The chief constable made these statements after failing out at a newspaper story last Monday which purported to quote unnamed police officers as contemplating handing in their resignations "because they are not satisfied with present working conditions."

NO APOLOGY
"It is true that it was necessary to suspend some officers, but I have no apology to make for that action. How long could an efficient police force be kept in a state of discipline?" the chief constable asked.

Chief Blackwood observed that Edmonton is unique among Canadian cities at the time of the resignations being offered for work in the north it is natural that younger men should be tempted to take other work.

"I feel certain, despite what may be said by some of the men who have resigned that the high wages being paid elsewhere is the chief cause of the resignations," he said.

Talk resolutions were passed at the meeting of the R.C.M.P. for the purpose of securing a supply of lead for the war.

Among the 200 resolutions to be passed at the convention are those dealing with farm produce insurance, wheat quotas, etc.

It is also suggested by some delegates to the convention that the matter of political affiliation of the police should be given a thorough consideration.

Revision Alberta Statutes Is Completed; To Become Effective Next Feb. 15

Effective Feb. 15 the revised statutes of Alberta will become operative in, and on behalf of this province. A proclamation to that effect has been signed by Premier William Aberhart, in his capacity as attorney-general. The revised statutes are included in three volumes, and a fourth, which will include additional and complementary material, will be issued in the near future.

Preparation of the revised statutes has been under consideration for several years, and since the present government came into office in 1935 attention was concentrated on them, and two years ago, the necessary appropriation was voted by the legislature, and work commenced immediately.

George B. Henwood, K.C., deputy attorney-general, expressed gratification at the completion of the revision, and satisfaction with the results. "We have a total of 4,200 pages of Alberta statute law available now," he said.

Inspection of the completed project, he felt, would be most gratifying to the public, and a source of satisfaction to the legal profession, whose work now would be simplified.

Vol. I has 103 chapters and 1,274 pages. Vol. II contains chapters 104 to 204 and pages 1,275 to 2,770, while Vol. III has chapters 205 to 234 and pages 2,771 to 4,200.

Mr. Henwood explained that Vol. IV would include various acts and regulations, and would be published in the near future. It is expected that this volume would be ready in a month.

BOUND IN BUCKRAM
The volumes are bound in buckram, light brown in color, and are of a size which is convenient for use in libraries and law offices.

Empire Buster Is Tough Disciplinarian

Montgomery Succeeds Where 3 Other Generals Failed

OSA MASSEN, supporting George Raft and Brenda Marshall in Warners' "Background to Danger," came from Copenhagen four years ago and is now an American citizen. She addresses board rallies in English, French and Scandinavian. She attended U.C.L.A. summer course and is working for a degree. She is extremely proud of her Beverly Hills victory garden. Miss Massen was a news photographer in her native Denmark.

Laughable Log Rollers

Having fun is just as easy as rolling off a log for the Bronx Zoo pandas who do just that, much to the amusement of zoo visitors.

Sirens Sift the Sand of Time

Virginia Patton, Marian Hall and Dolores Moran—three of Warners' loveliest starlets—are enjoying a brief awayness from microphones and make-believe on the sands of the blue Pacific. All are with Joan Leslie, Dennis Morgan and Ida Lupino in Warners' "The Hard Way."

Nips Nipped in New Guinea

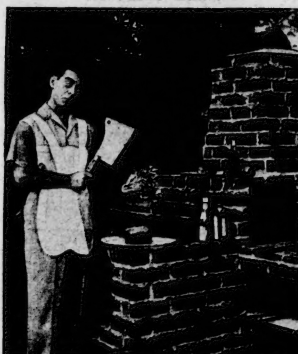

Swathed in bandages, three Jap prisoners present a picture of utter dejection as they sit under guard of Australian soldiers. They were captured during the final assault in which American and Australian forces drove the Japs out of Gona, New Guinea, pushed on to Sempang Point and village.

This is the all-important front in Tunisia where the last big battle of Africa may be waged. American-French-British forces operating from Tebessa are reported driving coastward to cut off Rommel's retreat in the Gabes-Mareth Line sector, while other Allied troops battle the Axis between Mateur and Kairouan.

Versatile Eddie

Eddie Cantor—merryman of stage, screen and air—starred with forty-eight others in Warners' mammoth musical, "Thank Your Lucky Stars"—is master of many activities beside dancing, singing, clowning and acting as his brothers' keeper. The culinary art is one of them and here he is at his outdoor fireplace with a meat-loaf of his own making, the condiments, and a ferocious meat cleaver with which he is about to do damage to an innocent celery head.

Desert Bird Takes to the Air

Britain's Gen. Bernard Law Montgomery, Ulster-born officer of action, has succeeded where three generals before him failed in reaching Tripoli and driving the last Axis soldier from Libya. This 55-year-old empire buster is a tough drill master, a rigid disciplinarian. He is brusque, even rude; he countenances no interruptions in conference. Like the Rommel he outfoxed with the aid of Allied planes and warships, he likes to ride a fast tank or squat in a front-line trench. In saving Egypt, his offensive tactics were to have infantry gouge out holes, with tanks crashing through behind. Thus ended the Axis march on Suez.

American Guns Bag Raider

No Butter? Here's How Margarine Is Made

Faced with a wartime butter shortage, many Canadian families are turning for the first time to margarine, an economical, vitaminized substitute. Here's how it's made: pure vegetable oils, pasteurized skim milk, salt and vitamin A are mixed and chilled colder than ice to quick-freeze the milk moisture (1). Chilled flakes are squeezed and kneaded to velvet texture in compressor (2) and emerge in ribbon-like bars. These bars of margarine are chopped into one-pound blocks in assembly-line fashion (3) and are wrapped in waxed cartons. Because of tax on colored margarine, product is sold white. Housewives can make it look just like butter by mixing in pure coloring matter (4) then reshaping it into block.

'I Am a Murderer'

BY MORRIS MARKEY
"AVE ATQUE VALE"
CHAPTER XVII

CYNTHIA had not become hysterical. She had not fainted, or seemed stunned, as from being struck, rather than frightened or terrified distressed.

Certain women had kept their wits, and let her to her own room. Mrs. Malcolm Fleming, who was Dr. Fleming's wife, had been among those women, and she was a capable creature. Dr. Fleming himself, having rushed to the side of Colonel Merrivether and discovering at once that he could do no avail in that place, searched for Cynthia's room on the second floor, and sat on the edge of her bed.

She looked at him. He said, "He is gone, my dear." She closed her eyes, from which no tears came, and the last touch of color washed out of her face. She shivered, as with bitter cold, and coverlets were drawn over her. Dr. Fleming mixed something in a glass, and she drank it. He took one of her hands, and massaged it gently, and nodded to his wife, who did the same with her other hand.

Anne West was there, sitting in a low chair and staring at Cynthia with eyes very wide and her lips parted a little. Dr. Fleming lowered the lights, and when he went quietly to the door his wife followed him. "I don't believe she'll blow up," he said in a solemn whisper when they had reached the hall. "I'll have to go downstairs. If you need me, send Anne. I'll be back in a little while anyway."

There was almost breathless silence in Cynthia's room for a considerable while. Then she spoke to Anne, without and the wailing "Will you go find Hank?" she said. Anne said eagerly, "Of course, darling." It lay within the nature of her loyalty that she felt no disappointment because Cynthia had not wanted Fred West instead.

She found Henry Prentiss in the bar, talking in low tones with the waiter, and beckoned to him. He followed her toward the stairs, and it just perfectly awful! she whispered to Anne.

He did not answer. They moved down the corridor on tiptoe, and he was standing beside Cynthia's bed, looking down at her. It was curious to see address in the face of Henry Prentiss.

He took her hand and touched her cold forehead with his other hand. "Tell Anne anything you want me to do," he said. Her pressure on his hand tightened, and she drank it, and then relaxed.

"It'll be around," he said. She nodded. He stood motionless beside her for a little while, and then touched her forehead again, and went out of the room.

Michelle Grace came out of the library on an errand, and through the doorway as it opened, she caught sight of Henry Prentiss. He beckoned, and she walked toward him, but did not speak. The photographers, done with their job, were packing their equipment. The fingerprint people were dealing with their last tangle of duties. The body of Colonel Merrivether had not been moved. He was calm and prelate, even as he had been killed. His hair was still carefully brushed, and his eyes were closed. His hair, delicate hands reposed on the table, and the left one was only an inch or two from the pistol which had killed him. That weapon had been worked upon by the fingerprint men, and then placed exactly as it had been before. It was new, and shiny, and of an ordinary American make.

"The guy left a perfect set on the gun," one of the fingerprint men said. "No pores, not a blur, and no wiping."

Lieutenant Thatcher nodded. He pointed forward and picked up the sheet of paper which Vaughan Dunbar had placed so accidentally before his victim. It was plain, white, rectangular, and in its centre there was neat typing.

AVE ATQUE VALE
Do not grieve for the destruction of this monster. Cynthia has rest of all for grief, though the nature of things I cannot tell her why—for that might do her as much harm as good.

The smaller gall stones resembles pebbles and anywhere from one to twenty may be present in the gall bladder at one time. They are not unusual after the age of twenty-five, but are more common after fifty. Three times as many women as men are afflicted with them.

One large stone is not as likely to cause distress as several small ones. The reason for this is that the large one stays in the gall bladder and is kept from irritating that organ by the bile which acts as a lubricant. The smaller stones cause the irritation by being able to escape from the gall bladder and make their way down the duct into the intestine.

This attempted passage of a gall stone produces what is known as gall colic, which is an acute, sudden, and severe pain. The colic does not always occur, even though there are gall stones, but when it does take place it is rarely fatal. Even though the pain seems to the patient to be unbearable.

The pain is due to the crowding of the stones through the very narrow bile duct. If the stone is stopped before it enters the intestine, the condition is severe, as it will bring about a backing up of the bile into the liver instead of allowing it to pass into the small intestine in the normal manner. From the liver the blood absorbs the bile and carries it to the tissues and we may see from the yellow coloring of the patient's face that he has jaundice, which is a symptom of bile stagnation. Sometimes the gall bladder becomes inflamed from irritating effect of the gall stones rubbing against it.

The formation of gall stones is still somewhat a mystery, but it is evidently concerned with a stagnation of bile. It is significant that athletes who are in good training practically never develop them. An over-easy of starches and sugars in the diet, together with lack of exercise, are probably the chief causes of the underlying bile stagnation.

The symptoms of gall stones are such that the patient usually is led to believe there is something wrong with the digestion. He loses his appetite and has considerable gas. He may vomit occasionally, and the stomach and the region to the right of it, may be tender and sore. If the gall stones are the cause of his distress, however, it is necessary that a careful examination be secured in order to be as certain as possible of the diagnosis.

Cases which are more difficult to diagnose are those in which colic is absent, and in such circumstances the X-ray will often be found of the greatest value.
